What is it? A therapeutic childcare center that includes children and family therapy services and community support.

Whom do we serve? Children of mothers who are engaged in treatment at Queen of Peace Center. To attend the childcare center, children must be between 6 weeks and five years old. Up-to-date immunizations are required, and our staff can assist in setting up these appointments.

What do we do? Provide early intervention by offering emotional support in a therapeutic classroom setting. Our teachers are trained to provide a safe, trauma-informed, caring environment for children to learn and grow.

Other services provided: Our Family Program Therapists and Child Community Support Specialist can work with youth ages 3-18 and whose mothers are engaged in treatment at Queen of Peace Center.

Interventions can include Family Therapy, Individual Therapy, Play Therapy, Parent-Child Interaction Therapy (PCIT), Children's Community Support (school uniforms, diapers, clothes, transportation, visitation, reunification assistance), Parent Education, Art Interventions, Couples Counseling, and Parenting Groups.
